Hi James I want to say thanks for this awesome experience I was given it really meant a great deal to me to share this experience with dad and it meant a great deal to him and mom as well. I REALLY am glad to see this too!!! I have dl'd my pics from camera and phone and have had a few friends that are vets/guardians that are planning to share their pics too.. is there a way for me to DL all these pics as opposed to 1 at a time to save them? I want to load ALL pics to a CD and make copies for all the friends that are guardians, the vets I know that went and lastly with my place of biz. As they have a veterans program and this would be super to have a start to finish example of what this awesome program is all about. I have already given the HR person a heads up of what is to come and she was "Army Brat" and my couple of paragraphs brought tears to her eyes and is greatly looking forward to the data I am gathering. This includes the copy of the premeeting event agenda pamphlet and the included sponsors list (hoping to get them to make an annual contribution here) and this info will be cascaded to all the people here.

  Just not sure of the easiest way that I could get them copied into my photos folder other than 1 at a time and that would be very time consuming as that photographer really has amassed the collection here.
Any assistance in this would be awesome
